workshops precede summer's floods

Students and faculty who did not leave Arizona for their summer spent their time in different and exciting ways.

Two teachers, Larry Halbert and James Newcomer were in the production of "Reynard the Fox" which was presented during June and July.

A couple of weeks before the start of school, students paid fifty cents and got a plastic identification card with a picture of themselves.

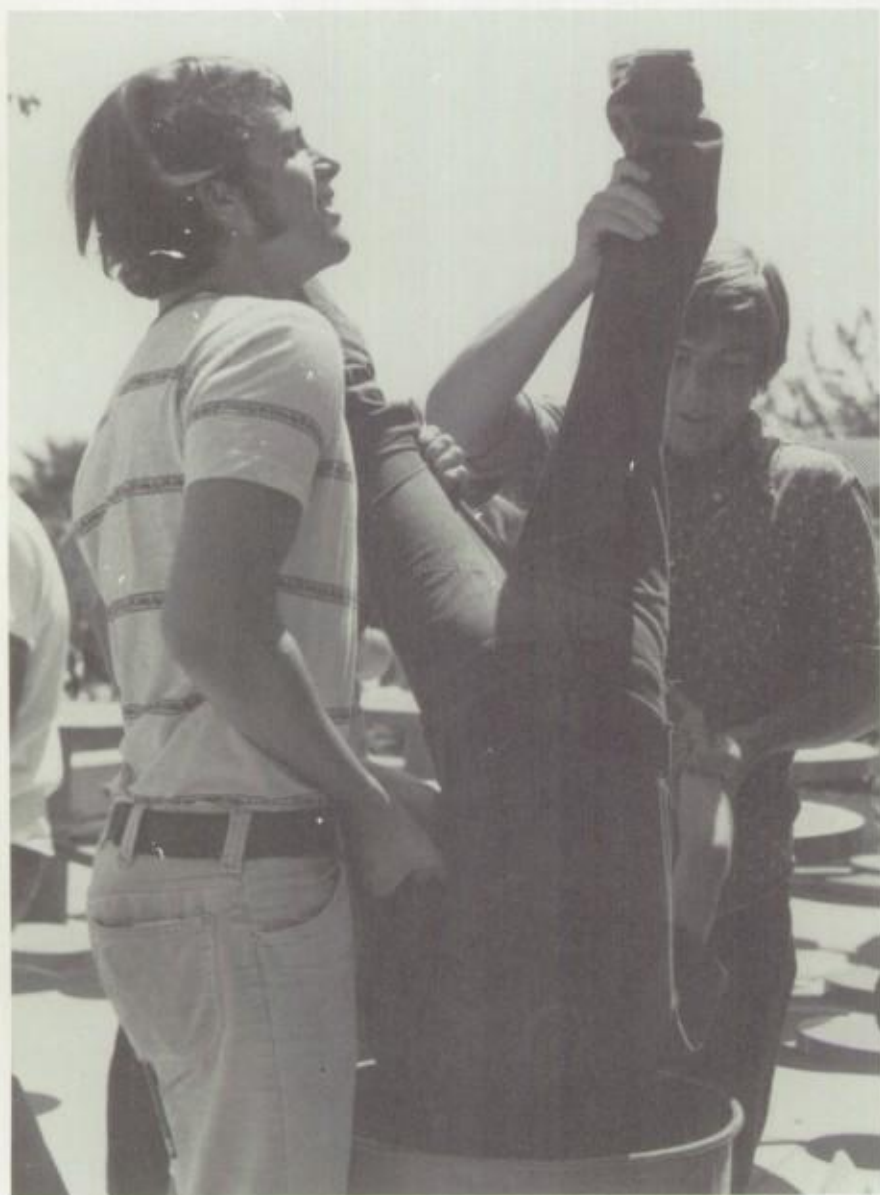

Interested students participated in the summer Theater Arts workshop. "The Crucible" was presented August 26-28.

Flooding was the result of a heavy rainstorm in the middle of July. Indian Bend Wash overflowed causing much damage to Eldorado Park.

The Verde River and Saguaro Lake were also big attractions during the summer.

•d Judy Brown, Pres Sherrod, Pam Hinton, and Stacy Naperala unload their packed car. They attended a summer workshop on journalism for eleven days at Northern Arizona University. •e Joe Andrews, senior, spent most of his summer at Big Surf "catching" waves to improve his skill on a surfboard. seniors initiate freshmen as howdy week tradition Typical Howdy Week activities were seen on campus the first week of school. The seniors made freshmen push pennies, sing the fight song and face embarrassing situations.

Freshmen who were caught not wearing a howdy card were punished by having to attend the Kangaroo Court. Senior Justice Dane Traines said "It worked out better than expected, and the freshmen co-operated fairly well."

Freshmen at the end of Howdy Week got acquainted at the Howdy Hop. The dance was held in the gymnasium, Friday, September 8, after an inter-squad football game. Pat Curtis and Laura Zepeda were crowned Howdy King and Queen before the dance got underway. The Queen had to do an impression of Ed Sullivan while the King had to push pennies. The senior class sponsored the dance and Tubesteak provided the music.

opening play portrays life of deaf, blind, mute child

"Miracle Worker" based on the life story of Helen Keller, was the first production of the Fine Arts department. The play had originally been done at Coronado in 1968. "Miracle Worker" was presented in the auditorium November 2 and 4.

Special effects, such as, recorded voices and film flicks were used to present the past life of Annie Sullivan, the one person who had enough patience to teach Helen how to communicate with the world around her where she had been blind and deaf.

Annie finds Helen to be a very spoiled child and asks if she may have two weeks alone with the child to teach her. After two weeks with Helen, Annie is not satisfied by Helen's accomplishments. Helen finally realizes what Annie was trying to teach her when she puts water into a pitcher she had spilled.

•a Listening to the criticisms of director Judie Carroll, the cast and crew of "Miracle Worker" take notes during a dress rehearsal. •b Annie Sullivan (Cindy Gilbert) receives a gift from her friends at the school for the blind. •c Having chased the Keller family from their house, Annie proceeds to teach Helen (Jody Taggart) "proper table manners". •d Locked in her room by a mischievous Helen, "Miss Annie" is rescued from her second story room by a chivalrous Captain Keller (Joe Brinnon). •e New hope for mute, dumb and blind Helen is seen when Kate (Nancy Kelley) says "My Helen, folded her napkin; she can learn." •f Seeing only one way to quiet Helen down, Annie makes use of the surrounding dining room tableware and throws water on Helen.

gridders efforts produce 8-2 record

The varsity football team started their season with a 21-9 win over state champion Tempe and an all time high of 50-0 over Casa Grande.

The Saguaro game started on Friday night in heavy rain. It was called off and the crowds were evacuated due to flooding. The game was played the next day with the Dons winning in the last seconds of the game giving them the city championship.

Coronado's first loss came when they played Mesa. The Dons went behind early in the game and didn't catch up all evening. In their first league (continued on page 25)

don eleven overwhelm tempe high

Pre-season preparations helped the j.v. football team to a shutout victory over the Tempe Buffaloes in the first game of the season. The winning streak carried through the fourth game of the season when they slipped past the Saguaro Sabercats by one point. Injuries sustained by the quarterback and several other players forced them to drop the next four games. They compiled a record of 6 wins and four losses.

frosh finish season with 5-5 record

Hampered by inexperience, the freshman team was off to a slow start early in the season winning only one game by mid-season when they shut out Arcadia. They won the next two games allowing their opponents only 8 points. They lost the next one only to come back to win the two remaining games shutting out both teams. They closed the season with a 5-5 record. Scott Birmingham was the leading rusher and scorer, while Kirk Poth was the defensive point leader.

'celebration of life' theme evident throughout week

A full week of preparation led up to the Friday, November 10, football game and the half time festivities of homecoming 1973. With a theme of "celebracion de vida", the windows and halls were decorated by clubs and floats were made by each class. Thespians and the freshman class won the window competition and Amicae was first in hall decoration. For the third year in a row, the class of 1973 won the float competition.

Homecoming King, Jim Scott, and Queen, Suzie Esahak, were attended by Devrea Herman, Jeff Hantla, Cyndie Watkins and John Mannion.

After the victory over the Kofa Kings, a dance was held in the cafeteria with music provided by Uncle John.

runners break records, take sixth in state meet

Official practice for the cross country team began two weeks before school but most of the runners started early in the summer. Everyday during practice the boys ran fifteen miles in preparation for the meets. One week prior to their first meet the team held an inter-squad and the first seven men to finish the two and a half mile course ran varsity.

Their season lasted for two months and ended with four wins, five loses and a sixth in state. The team took a second at the city meet with Larry Vela, senior, placing first and Doug Fledderjohn, sophomore, fourth. A fifth at division qualified them for state. Several course records were broken by Larry Vela and Doug Fledderjohn, during the season.

close scoring highlights alumni basketball conflict

Again the alumni thwarted their faculty counterparts in their annual basketball clash, but this year's game was highlighted by close scoring and "cheating tactics" by the rivals. Final score of 50-49 resulted in the last two minutes after several back and forth baskets by the emulous competitors. Former band members and donettes participated in the Alpha Omega sponsored event.

Half time activities included a skit by "superdon" Robert Baker, Tom Salcito, Nathaniel Hathaway, Joy Figuerola and Dorothy Janca.

Fourth quarter action was comprised of such strategies as the faculty bench's own whistle, an under-the-legs-set-up by James Ryder, a bribe by Ralph Bradshaw and a missing referee, kidnapped by the faculty cheerleaders.

theme of sunrise, sunset becomes mood for prom

"Sunrise, Sunset" was the theme of the annual Sweetheart Prom. This year Key Club helped Criada with some of the expenses. The prom was held downstairs at the Saddleback Inn, where couples could walk through three rooms. The decorations were only sand candles because of the pictures already hanging. Providing music was "Cranberry Compton", a local band with some members Coronado students and former graduates.

Each class nominated three girls for class princess and queen. The winner was announced at the prom. The new princess' were crowned by last years winners. tanksters work to better form, speed, endurance musical tells of classical love story in 'oklahoma'

Olympic medalist, Mark Spitz, has given new interest in the sport of swimming and possibly more enthusiasm in the spectator as well as in those participating. Thoughts of the olympics were probably in the minds of many of the varsity swimming team members.

During the long hours of practice they worked on form, speed, strength and endurance. Form was especially important to the teams only diving member, senior letterman, Gardner Lahet. Kevin Burns, who swam four events was top man for the team.

The musical classic of Rogers and Hammerstein's was brought to the Coronado stage in the form of "Oklahoma." The play was directed by James Newcomer and Judie Carroll, the vocal music by Mike Merriefeld and the orchestra by Eugene Hanson. Janie Jones did the dance numbers for the chorus and dream parts in the play.

The play is the love story of Laurey and Curly in the middle of an all out feud between the farmers and ranchers. Neither Laurey nor Curly want the other to know how they really feel. Aunt Eller is the only one who really knows. Laurey has a friend, Ado Annie who "can't say no" to any guy and has two guys after her. A hired hand Jud, tries to get Laurey as his own and in the end he is killed and Oklahoma is a state.

gymnasts perform with grace, agility

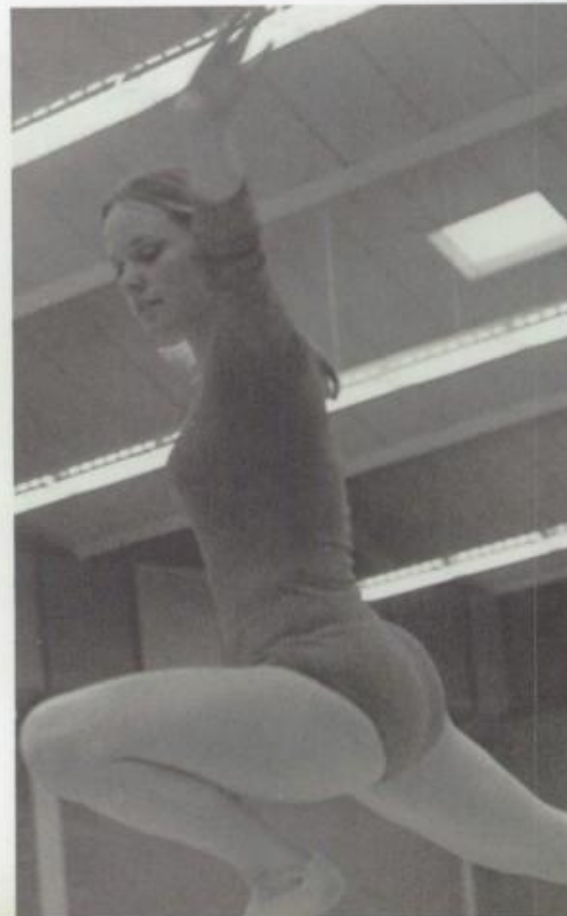

Grace, agility and strength were the main factors in the girls' gymnastics team. The team practiced every school day from two to four to iron out any problems that may develop before a meet.

State title holder in floor exercises and balance beam, Shelley Bristow and Gail Kwiatkowski second in state in vaulting along with new and returning members gave the team a "well rounded" quality.

This year the girls were also allowed to do optional exercises at some of the meets instead of only compulsory. Coach Karen Maglich felt this helped the team a lot. The state meet was held here.

antiwar plays continue despite peace

Even though the peace treaty was signed with North Vietnam the fine arts department still presented the plays portraying anti-war themes. Gerald Carey directed the first of three anti-war plays, "We Bombed in New Haven." Extended platforms were used to cover the orchestra pit to make the audience have a feeling of participation in the play. The two other plays with the same theme were "Trojan Women" and "The Night Thoreau Spent in Jail." Thespians chose to perform a comedy as their play, not keeping with the theme because the war had "officially ended."

disneyland hosts senior class party

The senior class planned to take a trip to Disneyland for their senior party. The price of $24.00 included the round trip bus fair, breakfast, and a $15.00 book of tickets for Disneyland. They left late May 29 and spent the day of May 30 at the amusement park. The seniors returned to home on May 31, rested and then graduated that night.

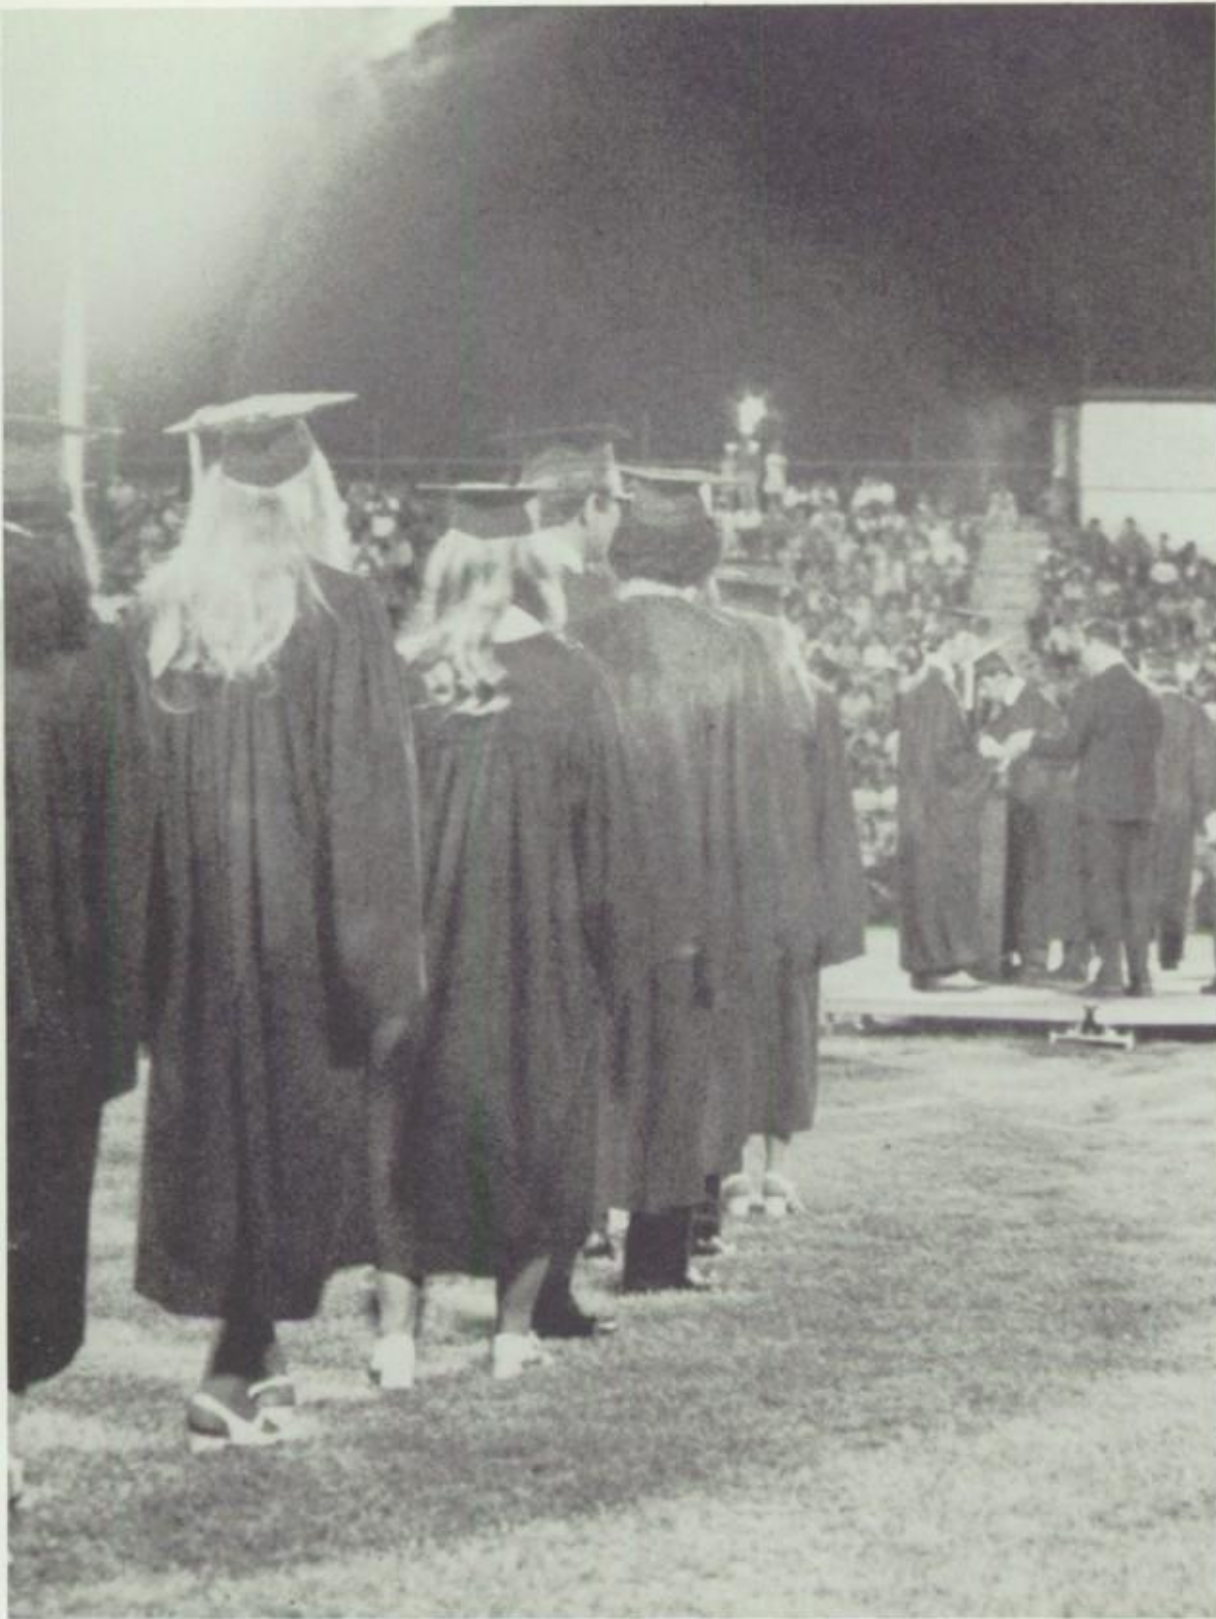

Graduation ceremonies were closed to the public this year and only people with invitations from graduates could attend the formal graduation exercises.

Caps and gowns were kept by the seniors this year because they were made of an inexpensive, disposable material.

A traditional baccalaureate was held on the Sunday before graduation, on May 27.

•a Disneyland was chosen as the place to hold the senior party and the fireworks show was one of the many things seniors get to see. staffers make 'offer you can't refuse'

Trail staffers up-dated the style of the yearbook by using a new type style, larger pictures and better coverage. Meeting the demands of an ever growing school, the book boasted eight more pages.

'Happy Trails to You' was once again echoed throughout the school as the staff used it to promote yearbook sales. Falling only two-hundred short of their goal, the staff set new sales records.

Broken switches, turning the dark room into a "light" room and a torn transparency by Newsfoto yearbook company set the staff back forcing them to hold several week-end work-days.

explorer tries yearbook type layout

"We're trying to get more feature stories and more informal and attractive layouts," commented Explorer editor Laurie Stegall. The newspaper experimented this year with magazine and yearbook type layouts, "because they're a lot more interesting and just generally look more modern," added Laurie.

They also sparked controversy running letters to the editor, editorials and a new column about school reform ideas.

The Explorer staff sponsored a toy drive for underprivileged Scottsdale children and helped host the 24th annual AIPA journalism convention.

council sells lollipops for heart fund

The main duty of executive board is to pass or reject petitions sent in by clubs. Before a club could do any thing it had to be passed by student council. The members of council were the class presidents and representatives along with student body officers. Council also brought up proposals on parking, campus beautification, open study halls, inter-club council, bookstore relations, bathrooms and active passes. The members were in different committees and wrote up proposals to be voted on. The main proposal was rewriting the constitution again. Council members sold tee shirts showing a number one coming out of a football. In February, council members sold heart shaped lollipops for the heart foundation; the sales lasted the whole month.

court justices bring suit against senate president

Bringing up a suit against the student senate and executive board was the main case for the court of justice. The case charged the executive board couldn't tax clubs 15% if they didn't have a majority of the senators to vote on it. The taxation was voted on in the summer with the class officers not on the executive board voting. They passed the taxation bill. A student in one of the clubs brought the case to court saying it was illegal voting in that matter without the full senate. The charges were against Kathy Griffin the president of senate. When a day was set aside for the hearing none of the justices showed up. Court was set for another another day and the same thing happened. The case was finally dropped for lack of interest, in both the court and senate.

committees plan events, homecoming celebration

Planning the events for homecoming week and its activities started the year off. The theme of homecoming this year was 'celebracion da vida' which means celebration of life. The field was decorated with posters on both sides of it. The lunch room was decorated in bright colors, windows and posters showing the Don victory over the Kofa Kings were painted during the day, plus decorating the field.

Before every home game and away game on Friday was a pep assembly. Dave Ziemba along with Joe Brinnon and others did skits for the up-coming game that night. The assembly committee made up the skits for all assemblies and organized it. The two committees got together and organized the homecoming-bonfire assembly on a Thursday night for the homecoming game that Friday night.

Lh holds car bash, initiates members

Beginning the year in a traditional way, Los Hermanos initiated new members into the club by having them wear mismatched clothing. Venturing to Prescott, Arizona the club cut down trees for the various clubs and their annual Christmas dance in the cafeteria. Advertising for the dance, the club members masqueraded as gangsters. Other activities included ushering at the games and plays, sponsoring the annual mother-son banquet and selling spirit buttons to raise money for the children's colony. They also sponsored the "First Annual Coronado Car Bash."

One of the newest service clubs on campus, key club used the motto "the men's club on campus" to get new members. They gave out basketballs in exchange for cans of food during Thanksgiving season. The food was given to needy families in the area. Criada and key club joined together to sponsor the Sweetheart Prom held in February. The clubs also went up to the snow the week after the prom for a day. Key club's main project was the selling of their calendars. The calendar had twelve girls from sophomore to senior representing a month. The girls were picked by the club to be on the calendar and the clothing ranged from bathing suits to formals. donettes, band take superior honors

The Dons band and the donettes provided the half-time entertainment for the football games. For the homecoming show the donettes used picdo-ras to dance to "It's So Nice" played by the band. Jana McDonald twirled with her fire batons to close the homecoming halftime show.

After football season the band and donettes went to U of A Band Day and were one of four bands to take superior ratings. This was the fourth year they have taken this honor. The band and donettes were also asked to perform at the opening of the Hilton Hotel and dance at the state basketball play-offs in the coliseum. The band had concerts and the donettes held try-outs to end the year, for next season.

Pep band played at all pep assemblies and at most of the sports events. Most members also belonged to varsity band.

Besides entertaining before all assemblies held in the auditorium, the stage band also played for open house and traveled to the Children's Colony over Christmas.

bands merge skills, cash for concert, fund raising

In order to raise enough money to send the Dons band to camp in the summer, the junior varsity and prep bands helped them by selling Heath bars. Before Christmas, with the other bands and choruses they went to the show and held a 'touch' football game.

Prep band is held on a non-audition basis, while junior varsity is not. Prep and junior varsity bands combined to give one concert which was held January 26. This year both bands were conducted by Frank Dubuy, a 1966 graduate of Coronado and band member.

choral lettermen work, serenade with choruses

Choral lettermen sponsored the "Messiah" alumni reunion chorus for the Christmas assembly. In late February they helped Choralairs with the "send a song" project on Valentine's Day, pushing a piano down the halls, serenading those sent a Valentine.

Along with ACE and Choralairs, choral lettermen sold candy and Christmas candy to raise money for jackets for the male members and to pay for the choruses spring tour around Arizona. Their sponsor Mike Merrifield, was a former lettermen member.

choruses band together for first time in concert

Under the direction of Frank Dubuy, a 1966 Coronado graduate, Cantadoras became a chorus of only 20 girls for those who wanted a smaller chorus. Before Christmas, all varsity choruses, bands and donettes went to the snow in Payson.

Combining with ACE, Choralairs and Dons band in October, Cantadoras held their first concert. Then in February, combining with the Orchestra, Cantadoras gave their second concert of the year. This was the first year the choruses and band were combined.

mat maids keep score for wrestlers

Mat Maids started off the new year by initiating all of their new members. The girls had to dress as wrestlers by wearing tights, shorts, a tee shirt and a wrestling shirt. They also had to wear a variety of make-up and a sign.

They also did their regular job of keeping score at the wrestling, track and gymnastics meets. They attended the wrestling banquet and hamburger fry. Mat Maids was one of the largest clubs on campus.

united work merits club special workshop honor

The honor of "chapter of the year" was given to the Future Teachers of America at the State FTA Convention last year. Karen James, senior, was elected State Secretary and Sandie Want, senior, was elected State Historian. The chapter placed first in the poster contest and was first runner-up in the scrapbook contest. The club's sponsor, Muriel VandenOever, was made the State co-advisor.

FTA was awarded a special honor for their outstanding work on their last workshop. The club hosted this year's annual State FTA Convention.

To earn money for the convention, the club sold daffy pops on campus and concessions at the football games. They took time out to help the Explorer newspaper with its first toy drive at Christmas for underprivileged children.

Occupations consisted of a food service, a fabric and fashion coordinator, companion to the elderly and child care aides. Speakers came to the club and talked about taxes, budgets and labor unions.

club explores superstition mountains

Going to Bluff Springs in the Superstitions was the first hike of the year for the hiking club. The club held meetings on Tuesdays to discuss the upcoming hikes. Those planning to go on the hike had to attend. During Christmas vacation they went to Strawberry on a snow trip. Building snowmen and going down the hills on innertubes was part of their snow trip activities. Their main hiking trips were to the Grand Canyon and to Matatzal. Most of their trips were overnight and they would leave early in the morning to get up to their hiking spot. Other hiking trips were to the Red Mountains and to a cabin in the White Mountains during March.

Homecoming candidates were picked for their outstanding achievements during their years at Coronado. Nominated by the senior class and voted on by the student body. The King, Queen and attendants were announced during half-time of the Kofa game.

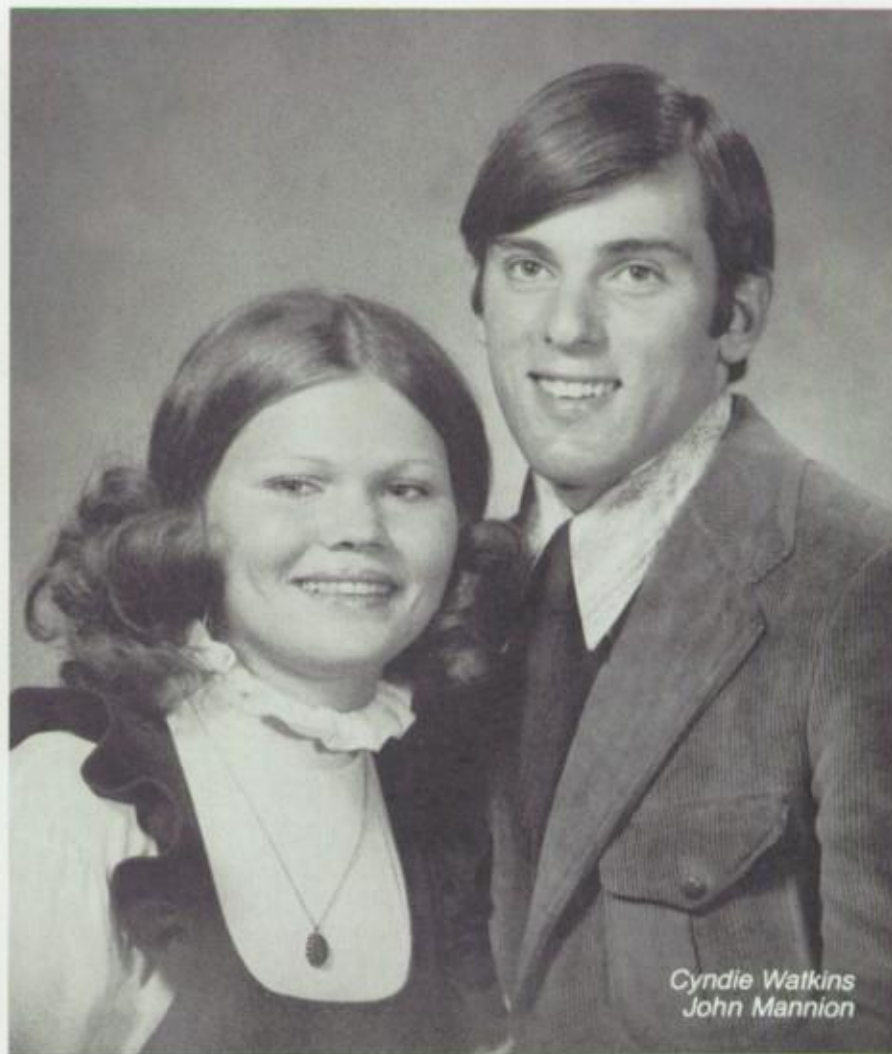

Chosen as Queen and King were Suzie Esahak and Jim Scott. Suzie was a member of Criada and the senior class treasurer. She was also on the varsity cheerline that won honors at cheer camp. Jim was student body president and worked on several student government committees. He was vice president of the Key Club and the treasurer of NHS.

The attendants were Devrea Herman, Cyndie Watkins, Jeff Hantla and John Mannion. Devrea was captain of the varsity cheerline and Cyndie was co-captain in her junior year. Jeff and John were both members of athletic lettermen.

"Open campus has effected us tremendously," said Eleanor Kay, cafeteria manager. "It has done a great deal of harm to us. We dropped about 300 to 400 dollars a day. There were approximately 1000 to 1100 students going through the lunch line as compared to over 2500 before open campus," said Mrs. Kay.

•e Wilda Vance, assistant baker, takes some muffins out of the tin. •f Eva Nizick does a little cleaning at the end of a long day. The cafeteria workers come to work at 6:30 in the morning and don't get through until 2:30 or 3:30 in the afternoon. •g Peggy Nienaber, head cook, prepares corn dogs for lunch. The workers cook and prepare all the food that is served in the cafeteria themselves. They have a sizable assortment of recipes to work from. •h Dorothy Webb, head baker, takes some goodies out of their tin.

custodians take on extra work load

Lack of money district wide effected the custodial staff. Cuts in staff often caused a double work load for many of the custodians. Lawns and plants had to be ignored as time had to be devoted to clean-up and maintenance work inside the buildings.

school board seeks 'many reforms'

"We need reform," stated Sam Childs. "We have no idea what we do with our money," he added. "I think we're doing a satisfactory job," replied superintendent of schools, Doctor Gabriel Reuben. So the debate continued over a 5.5 million dollar referendum to expand career education.

The referendum was just one of several controversial issues before the school board this year as several organizations tried to change the present form of education. "It's one big headache," said Reuben, "It all came up at one time."

lone male officer remains in control

In order to sponsor the annual Junior-Senior Prom, the class of '74 sold concessions at the homecoming game, sponsored dances and sold candy during the first months of school.

Silk-screened T-Shirts became the junior class next project. They sold them to the student body and faculty. The ugly legs contest was also sponsored by the juniors.

Second place was taken in both float and window competitions. Participation in jaycee 3 enabled the juniors to voice their opinions to help class officers with decisions.

The 'Celebracion de Vida' is shown in the junior class's float as a Don tips his hat in victory. The class of '74 came in second place in the float competition.

Junior officers: Kathy O'Neill, secretary, Kim Loughary, vice president, Kay Russell, representative, Ruth Ann Young, treasurer, Suzanne Redding, representative, Pati Whelan, junior justice, Adele Sampair, representative, Mike Parker, president.

Selling kick-off bags at the Mesa football game started the year off for the sophomore class. The homecoming week events brought building the float which placed in a tie for third, a lawn which got first place and the class window, taking fourth.

Selling candy and spirit ribbons for basketball helped to raise money for both the class picnic which was held at the end of February and the junior-senior prom which they planned and hosted. They met twice a month to discuss upcoming events and plan for the class picnic.

frosh form club to clean up campus

A horse-riding lady was the theme of the freshman class Homecoming window which took first place in class division. In the float division, the frosh took third place.

Sponsoring a club made up of freshmen to clean up the campus was the main goal of the freshmen class officers. To show support for the athletic events and to promote sales for the trail, freshmen volunteers painted signs.

Christmas caroling and giving away sundaes to the first 50 people at a car wash included other frosh activities.

Expressing their version of the Homecoming theme 'Celebracion de Vida', frosh came up with the slogan "Cream the Kings" for the float. They tied for third place in competition.

O'Neill, representative and Mike Rolland, vice-president. Frosh representatives and president met everyday with Executive Board to voice opinions and views of the freshman class.

so long good friends

Sometimes there are certain moments in life when all people feel a need to be alone.

times to remember, look back upon,

reflective moments, final moments,

a time separate from others.

remembering . . .

christine fletcher
frankie hoffman

moments of long awaited peace, the moving times suddenly ending,
a time with a note of silence, times that lead to and from moments of life.
